

Current Lines of Research in the Ancient Near East

Líneas de investigación actuales en Próximo Oriente antiguo

Facultad de Geografía e Historia, Universidad Complutense de Madrid

Viernes 27 de octubre 2023 - Aula de Grados, planta 2

Organizan: Ana Arroyo Cambroneró, Armando Bramanti, Jaume Llop Raduà

9:00 Introduction and opening words

9:30 Betina Faist (Ruprecht-Karls-Universität Heidelberg)

The Middle Assyrian Governor's Archive from the Recently Discovered City of Mardama

10:00 Rocío Da Riva Muñoz (Universidad de Barcelona)

Religious Networks in Babylonia at the End of the First Millennium BC

10:30 Daniel Justel Vicente (Universidad de Alcalá)

Current Research in the "Babylonian Exile" from Cuneiform Sources

11:00 Luis Ruiz Cabrero (Universidad Complutense de Madrid)

Carthage: A Fully Hellenistic Oriental City

Coffee break

12:00 Giulia Torri (Università di Firenze)

Artisans and Specialized Workers in Hittite Anatolia

12:30 Eduardo Torrecilla Giménez (Universidad de Castilla-La Mancha)

Foreign Policy of Ugarit under Hittite Vassalage in the Late 13th Century BC

13:00 José Virgilio García Trabazo (Universidade de Santiago de Compostela)

Night and Underworld Deities in Anatolian and Indo-European

Lunch break

15:30 Elyze Zomer (Eberhard Karls Universität Tübingen)

From Freud to Babylon. New Perspectives on Mesopotamian Dream Interpretation

16:00 Andrés Piquer Otero (Universidad Complutense de Madrid)

Mythical Intertextualities? Liminal and Bodily Patterns in Ugaritic Texts and Their Possible Relations in the Context of the Ancient Near East

16:30 Manuel Molina Martos (Consejo Superior de Investigaciones Científicas, Madrid)

Studying Gender in Third Millennium Sumerian Texts: A New Approach

17:00 Round table and closing words

La participación está abierta a los estudiantes de todos los programas de grado, máster y doctorado y a todas las personas interesadas

Contactos: anarro03@ucm.es, abramant@ucm.es, jlllop01@ucm.es