INTRODUCTION AND OBJECTIVES

The Great Mosque of Córdoba, a glimpse of which appears in the image above, is not only an extraordinary example of medieval Arab architecture and a desired tourist destination; it is at the same time an embodiment of the civilization of al-Andalus, of the power and cultural hegemony it exercised over centuries, of its fall and fragmentation, and of its persisting image and legacy in our days.

This III Intensive Summer Course organized by Casa Árabe and the CSIC and held in Córdoba –as those that preceded it- is meant to introduce English speakers to the fascinating history of al-Andalus. Specialists will guide a selected group of students in a series of seminar-style intensive classes throughout a week-long course. We will explore together the political, social and economic aspects of this history, examine the intellectual developments and achievements that the civilization of al-Andalus reached, and look at its various contemporary meanings and legacies. Students will be acquainted with various types of sources, with textual and material remains, and with the scholarly work done in order to unearth the treasures of al-Andalus.

The course – this year – focuses on the scholars of al-Andalus, most especially the religious scholars ('ulama') but also those involved in the 'sciences of the ancients'. Both continuities and changes will be explored from the Umayyad to the Nasrid period, dealing also with the specific features of the Mudejar and Morisco scholarly context. Special attention will be paid to the scholarly and social practices that allowed them to relate different groups in society, from the ruling elites to the common people. The main aim of the course is to assess the state of the art and to identify which areas need to be studied or to be further explored.

VENUE

The choice of the Casa Árabe in Córdoba as the venue for the course hardly needs any explanation. It is housed in the beautiful Casa Mudéjar, a 14-16th century building whose restoration received the World Heritage City Award 2011 from the Spanish Ministry of Education, Culture and Sports. (<http://www.casaarabe.es/sedes/show/casa-arabe-cordoba>). The Casa is located at a three-minute walk from the Mosque-Cathedral.

THE STUDENTS AND COURSE STRUCTURE

The course is directed at university students and scholars who – regardless of their specialization - want to become familiar with the most relevant issues related to the history of al-Andalus. Taught in English, it aims at guiding the participants to the wide range of scholarly research on al-Andalus. Thirty students will be selected from among the applicants (for the application procedure see below).

Students are not required to have knowledge of Arabic or any other language except English; for those who are proficient in Arabic, guidance in the Arabic sources will be provided as a complement.

A basic bibliography of studies in English will be provided once the selection of students has been made and registration has been finalized. The students selected are expected to become familiar with that bibliography before the beginning of the course. A more comprehensive bibliography, including the most relevant studies in a variety of languages, will be provided during the course.

As the course is intensive and text-oriented, students are required to be present at each class. An attendance certificate will correspondingly be provided. For those interested in producing a research paper, assignments will be given and upon submission (within six months) an examination certificate can be obtained.
